Sheriff lights up ashtray dumper

Man charged with dumping butt-pile on Main St., tossing cigarette toward cop

By Ben Carlson
News staff

Dumping an ashtray overflowing with cigarette butts on Main Street is a bad idea.

Dumping that ashtray with the sheriff watching is an even worse idea.

Burch

But tossing a cigarette butt at the feet of a trooper getting ready to write you a ticket for dumping that ashtray? The worse idea of all.

That scenario played itself out, however, landing a Nicholasville man behind bars.

The driver, Michael Burch, 27, of 351 Rebel Drive, Nicholasville was charged with two counts of criminal littering and a host of traffic violations. A female in the vehicle was also charged with outstanding warrants, and a child in the vehicle was taken into protective custody.

Anderson County Sheriff Troy Young said he witnessed Burch dump the ashtray at the corner of Woodford Street and South Main. Young said it was very large and stuffed with cigarette butts.

"It looked like the guy had just dumped out a charcoal grill," Young said.

Young pulled Burch over on Mustang Trail and asked to see a driver's license, which he said Burch could not produce.

When other nearby police officers heard Young on the radio involved in a traffic stop, several arrived, including Trooper Marvin Kelly, who agreed to write the tickets.

"When I arrived I observed [Burch] throw another cigarette butt out of his car as I was standing there," Kelly wrote.

The incident dates back to July 10. Burch was scheduled to be in court Aug. 20, but failed to appear.

He appeared for the first time in Anderson District Court last Thursday.

Family busted for tying 3-year-old to bed, chair up to 16 hours a day

Jailed grandmother showed mom how, tells police child spent 'more time tied up than free'

From staff reports

The parents and grandmother of a 3-year-old Lawrenceburg girl are charged with tying her up "very tightly" for up to 16 hours a day.

Charged with first-degree criminal child abuse are her parents Rebecca Leah Medley, 30, and Herbert Charles Medley, 53, and the girl's grandmother Carolyn Case, 64.

The girl was tied up on a bed at Case's residence at 1024 Terri Lane from 8 p.m. to 6 a.m. each day, according to documents on file in Anderson Circuit Court.

She was also tied to the bed for a two-hour nap, and spent an additional four hours tied up for discipline, according to the documents. She was also tied up to a booster seat in a kitchen chair for up to an hour a day for discipline.

The girl was tied up with a curtain sash by lacing it through the arm holes in her shirt and behind her back. It was then fastened to the bed using a large horse collar safety pin, according to court documents.

Young couple delivers firstborn son at home with help from 911 communicator

By Meaghan Downs
News staff

Right before 22-year-old Lane Petrey gave birth to her first child, she had a nightmare about her son's umbilical cord.

She said she dreamed she was in labor, all alone, with no knowledge of what to do.

A few weeks later, her boyfriend Ryan Pike faced the same scenario, cutting off his son's umbilical cord after delivering their firstborn, Mason Ryder, at home with the help of an Anderson County 911 dispatcher.

Pike, 22, said Petrey's contractions had begun last Tuesday, but she was progressing too slowly to be admitted to Central Baptist Hospital where the birth was supposed to take place.

"She was in quite a bit of pain, but her contractions hadn't started like we thought it would have," Pike said.

The soon-to-be parents went home to wait, but at about 3:30 a.m., Pike heard Petrey call out to him from the bathroom.

"From the tone of her voice, she wasn't

Marine charged with first-degree rape of juvenile

Gribbons held without bail; police say victim 'extremely intoxicated'

From staff reports

A Lawrenceburg man who is a member of US Marine Corps remains jailed without bail after being charged with the first-degree rape of a juvenile.

Gribbons

Jake R. Gribbons, 19, of 301 Secretariat Drive is accused of raping a juvenile female Sept. 16 outside of a residence on Harrodsburg Road.

Gribbons was arraigned last Thursday in Anderson District Court where he entered a plea of not guilty. District Court Judge Linda Armstrong ordered him held without bail.

The charge stems from an incident Sept. 16 during which the female was "extremely intoxicated" at a party, according to a report on file in Anderson District Court. Witnesses told police that the female was "unable to speak or walk without assistance before Gribbons walked her to his vehicle to go to sleep," according to the report.

The same witnesses told police that when they opened the vehicle's door, they saw Gribbons in the act of having sexual intercourse with the female while she was incoherent, according to the report.

Witnesses also said they had to drag the female from the vehicle and stated that she was unable to dress herself, speak and could only make "moaning noises," according to the report.

Police say Gribbons admitted to having intercourse with the female and that he was also intoxicated, according to the report.

The female, police said, had no recollection of the incident, according to the report.

Gribbons was arrested Sept. 18 on South Main Street in Lawrenceburg.

A preliminary hearing is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. Sept. 27 in Anderson District Court.

Gribbons is a 2011 graduate of Anderson County High School.

DELIVERY

OK," Pike said.

Pike wanted to call his mother, Melissa Pike, who lived minutes away on Fox Creek/Goshen Road, first.

"I was on the couch ready to go because I wasn't sure when she was going to be ready to go to the hospital," Melissa Pike, a nurse at Central Baptist Hospital, said of Petrey. "I had my makeup on, I was dressed. I was ready to go."

But Petrey told him to call 911 first before calling Melissa; the baby was already crowning.

"No, call 911," Pike recalls Petrey saying. "He's coming."

On the other end of Pike's frantic 911 call was Jennifer Mitchell, a 911 communicator who had been working at dispatch for the last four years.

"I couldn't believe it at first," Mitchell said of the call. "This was a first for me."

She said she had never coached anyone through a delivery before. She said her boss said in the 30 years he's been in dispatch, no one had coached a caller through the birth of a baby.

"You go on auto pilot or something," Mitchell said of coaching Pike through the call.

"You go on impulse."

Mitchell, 23, graduated from Anderson County High School in 2008. Pike graduated in 2007.

But the new father didn't know the woman who coached him through his son's birth was his high school classmate until days later.

Pike said he doesn't remember much of his conversation with Mitchell, actually. Mitchell said she remembers Pike repeatedly asking her, "Tell me what to do. Tell me what to do."

"I wasn't at a standstill," Pike said. "I was on the move the whole time."

Mitchell walked Pike through the post-delivery process — telling the new father how to clean his baby's face, to wrap his son in a towel and to feel the umbilical cord for pulsations.

Then came time to cut the cord.

Melissa Pike said Pike still wasn't sure two days before he birth if would be able to cut his son's umbilical cord.

"If it hadn't been for her, I don't know what Ryan would have done," Melissa Pike said of Mitchell.

But now, on the phone with 911, Pike ripped out his shoestring, but then decided that was too dirty to be used.

So he grabbed a string from one of Petrey's blouses and, like Mitchell instructed him, held it 6-8 inches away and tied it tight.

No sooner had he done that, Pike said, that the ambulance and paramedics arrived on scene.

Melissa Pike said by the time she got to the house, Petrey was already holding Ryder.

"When I'm telling you it was all quick, it was quick," Melissa Pike said.

Both Pike and Petrey's biggest fears about the surprise home birth were that their son would be in danger, and that Ryder could die.

"Biggest fear was that he wasn't going to make it," Pike said. "Until he got to the ambulance, I thought 'he's going to die.'"

Three days later, Mitchell sat on the floor of Pike and Petrey's home, bringing baby gifts for baby Ryder like a stuffed giraffe and camouflage baby clothes.

"When he said baby was breathing and momma was doing good, it was a relief," Mitchell said of Pike.

Petrey, who said she has a high pain tolerance, planned to get an epidural at the hospital during the birth of her son, and that the unintended natural childbirth involved "indescribable" pain.

But Petrey said he trusted Pike to help her through the sooner-than-expected birth.

"I didn't know I trusted him that much, but I didn't have a choice," Petrey said with a laugh.

And Pike said his baby delivering days are over, hopefully.

He said he was thankful for modern technology that allowed him to be able to speak with Mitchell.

"Luckily, she was healthy and he was healthy," Pike said of Petrey and his son.

Now that the excitement of Ryder's birth is over, how will Pike and Petrey tackle parenting in the days ahead?

"Trying just to do things right," Petrey said.

"Day to day," Pike said. "Just go to take it day to day. Tomorrow is going to be a new challenge."

TIED UP

The sash was also used to tie her to a kitchen chair.

Case, the grandmother, told investigating troopers with the Kentucky State Police that the girl "spent more time tied up than free," according to documents.

Case also told investigators that she was tied up because she was "getting out of bed and getting into things," and that she was trying to "get out of the residence when everyone was asleep."

Case added that the girl's mother, Rebecca Medley, "would tie [the girl] up very tightly and that [her] movement was very impaired and she was not able to escape."

The girl was being tied up from June 1 through Aug. 3, when a child protective services worker alerted the state police.

Troopers arrived at Case's residence where she admitted tying up the girl and showed them the curtain sash and bed.

Troopers then interviewed the Medleys. Rebecca Medley refuted the grandmother's claim that the girl was tied up for four hours to the bed and another hour to a chair for discipline, saying the times were half that amount, according to the report.

She did confirm that the girl was tied up for 10 hours each night, according to the report. She added that Case began the practice of tying up the girl and continued doing so for the two months it was conducted. She told police that she and Case tied the girl up the about the same number of times and that Herbert Medley, her husband, knew about it, and that they "fought" about it on a regular basis, according to the report.

Herbert Medley told police he knew about the girl being tied up but "felt he could not ell anyone because Case had threatened to kick them out of the residence."

He said that Case started the practice and showed his wife how to do it.

Homecoming parade, festivities set for Thursday

From staff reports

The Anderson County High School homecoming parade will be held Thursday, Sept. 27, starting at the high school parking lot at 6 p.m.

The parade will follow a route beginning at the high school parking lot, turning left onto Broadway, following Broadway and turning left onto Main Street, and ending at the back parking lot of the Anderson County Middle School.

The parade will include the marching band, the homecoming court candidates and various student and staff representatives on floats or walking in the parade.

The parade will conclude in a bonfire and pep rally at the Lawrenceburg Green, behind Town and Country bank.

According to event organizers, head coach Mark Peach will speak about the upcoming Friday homecoming football game against Woodford County. There will also be cheers led by the cheerleading squad and a performance by the dance team.

Speeding tickets, not cars are flying on Versailles Road

Drury's effort for free medical clinic admirable

Column as I see 'em ...

Let's kick off this week's column with a bit of friendly advice.

If you speed while driving on Versailles Road keep two things close at hand: your driver's license and enough cash to pay for a speeding ticket.

Since the tragic death of a Lawrenceburg woman whose mini-van was struck head-on by a dump truck a couple of weeks ago, the Anderson County Sheriff's Office has been on that road like a duck on a jitterbug.

Ben Carlson
Publisher

Speeding tickets, not cars and trucks, are what's flying around on Versailles Road these days, so consider yourself warned.

Even the most casual observer will attest that traffic, most notably dump truck traffic, is stepping very lightly between Hilltop and the bridge, and rightfully so.

It's hard to tell how long that beefed up police presence can or will last — people speed on other roads, too — but count me among those who appreciate the efforts of the sheriff and his deputies to make that road a little safer.

Even the most casual observer will attest that traffic, most notably dump truck traffic, is stepping very lightly between Hilltop and the bridge, and rightfully so.

Speaking of safer, I have no idea if the Transportation Cabinet will lower the speed limit on Versailles Road as requested by Judge-Executive John Wayne Conway.

In his remarkably brazen letter to the editor this week, Cabinet employee Shawn Crowe predicts it won't happen, but I'm not convinced he speaks on behalf of Secretary Michael Hancock, so we'll see.

I understand that the all knowing and all powerful state government built and maintains that road, and that complicated studies and formulae are used to determine how fast traffic is allowed to travel.

But I also know that all the studies and formulae in the world are useless without a good dose of common sense.

Like him or not, if there's one thing Conway brings into this discussion it's common sense, and denying his request would be nearly as brazen as Crowe's letter.

Speaking of speed, it's still too early to know just how fast the dump truck in that wreck was traveling when it struck the mini-van.

I spoke Monday with a spokesperson for the Kentucky State Police and the investigation into that wreck is ongoing.

I was told that accident reconstruction experts have spent considerable time examining the truck and other evidence, and were required by law to take a blood sample from the truck driver, the results of which could take upwards of a month to determine.

Of course I'm ignorant as can be about such investigations, but judging by the haunting white dashes painted over the truck's skid marks, it's hard to imagine that it wasn't running at a fairly fast clip.

Speaking of considerable time, a shout out this week to Donna Drury for the untold number of hours she spent organizing a grill-off this past Saturday to benefit the soon-to-be-opened free medical clinic.

The turnout wasn't perhaps as big as anyone would have liked, but that doesn't mean it wasn't a success. Any money raised for that clinic is a bonus, and the months Drury invested into making it happen speak volumes of her commitment to that facility.

It probably didn't help that the main road through the county parked was blocked for part of the day for the Civil War re-enactment, which restricted access to the grill-off for those attempting to reach it from the Main Street and Glensboro Road entrances to the park.

Had the public notice required to temporarily close a county road been provided to the newspaper, we would have included that information in last week's advance coverage of the event.

It wasn't, and I only hope that those who wanted to attend weren't confused by the closure and found something else to do.

A good sense of trust is hard to find

Trust is becoming as rare as floppy disks these days.

Meaghan Downs
Staff writer

Both are relics for a future museum. I envision the working title: "Things Americans Once Used and Threw Away."

Other exhibits will showcase print volumes of the dictionary, instructions for dinner etiquette and glass milk bottles.

Trust in anything — churches, media, banks, government, school districts — is becoming harder for people to commit to.

As a self-declared commitment phobe, it's not surprising that I find it more difficult to believe in trust as an adult.

In many ways, too much trust in one person or organization will prevent me from doing my job as a reporter.

But any relationship builds its foundation on the faith that is trust.

You trust babysitters, daycares and schools with your children. Your car with your bodily safety. Your bank with your money. Your church with your soul.

Remove all trust from your belief system and soon you won't be able to open your front door.

As a writer, it's imperative that I establish the same faith and trust with the reader. You are now reading this sentence, word following word following the previous word, with the trust that I am not lying, that every sentence in this column comes from an original and heartfelt place.

Not to worry, this column comes straight from my own brain to the page in front of you.

But once you peak into the idea of what trust really and truly means to us today, it's a quick descent down the rabbit

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Conway's speed limit request 'ridiculous'

To the editor:

There is no doubt that accidents have been a common occurrence along the portion of US 62 between Hilltop Drive and the Kentucky River this year.

We've seen numerous accidents involving cars striking deer, cars striking debris falling off trucks and vehicles striking other vehicles.

Judge-Executive John Wayne Conway's push to reduce the speed limit to 45 mph all the way to the Woodford County line is a ridiculous idea, and has little chance of being approved by the Transportation Cabinet.

It seems like the road has become significantly more dangerous lately. Unfortunately, some of the accidents along this stretch of road have been fatal this year.

It is always very sad news indeed when you hear of someone losing their life on a highway. It would be wonderful if changes could be made to prevent this tragedy from happening in the future, and I think there are some things that can be done.

Having said that, Judge-Executive John Wayne Conway's push to reduce the speed limit to 45 mph all the way to the Woodford County line is a ridiculous idea, and has little chance of being approved by the Transportation Cabinet.

As a Kentucky Transportation Cabinet employee, let me share a couple of stats with you. The portion of US 62 between Hilltop Drive and the Kentucky River carries on average about 5,300 vehicles per day. This is only a quarter of the traffic volume we see on US 127 Bypass. Of those 5,300 vehicles on US 62, only about 8 percent are commercial trucks.

Most of the road segment is rural by designation. There is almost no reason whatsoever to reduce a rural US highway to 45 mph with such light traffic and small numbers of large trucks.

There are other highways in Anderson County that are far more dangerous, such as Highway 151 which at last count carried 7,300 vehicles per day, almost 16 percent of which are commercial trucks.

Your odds of being involved in an accident with a large truck are far higher in other parts of the county compared to US 62.

As any good law and government professor will teach you, we can't fix problems with more laws. We've got too many laws as it is.

The proper thing to do is to enforce the ones already intact. The same rule applies here. People who are already speeding and breaking the law are not going to magically stop doing so if you put up a new lower speed limit.

The proper thing to do is to enforce the speed limit which is already in effect. The current speed limit was set in place after careful review by highway engineers in the first place. The speed limit should be, and likely will be, left alone on US 62 since it adheres to current standards for US highways.

Other things to improve safety such as reflectors, experimental warning signage with enhanced visual markings such as LED lighting, rumble strips, etc. may be considered by KYTC engineers after a careful review and these things combined with extra patrol by local police should help to curb the problem that we are seeing on this stretch of highway.

My heart goes out to the families that have lost loved ones on Anderson County highways this year.

Geoprocessing Specialist
KY Transportation Cabinet

Conway 'misguided' as cops play tax collector

To the editor:

Judge-Executive John Wayne Conway's insistence on lowering the speed limit on Versailles Road is misguided.

The recent accidents there were not caused by speed. They were caused by human error and/or carelessness.

People drive what they feel is a safe and reasonable speed regardless of the speed limit, and lowering already artificially low limits only creates another speed trap for police to use to create revenue.

People are not going to slow down, but they can be made to drive more safely.

One hundred people a day die in car wrecks in this country, and that is not going to change until police quit running speed traps and start targeting careless driving. Careless drivers are everywhere. They are the ones you see who don't signal lane changes, turns, merges and exits.

They don't turn their headlights on in the rain or at dusk and dawn.

They drive with their parking lights on instead of their headlights. They don't stop behind the crosswalk at intersections.

They creep out into intersections when waiting on the red light. They follow too closely.

They don't come to a complete stop when turning right on red or at stop signs.

Until police quit playing tax collector and start actually caring about the real problems that face careful drivers, people will continue to die, regardless of the speed limits.

The difference between sugar, honey

Is honey better for you than sugar?

Neither is considered healthy as both are sweets with no significant health benefit.

Joan Martin
Guest columnist

Neither is going to harm you in the sense that one is toxic or poisonous to you while the other is not.

Both honey and granulated sugar are occasional use foods.

Sweeteners are found in many foods, including some that you might not suspect such as spaghetti sauce.

The most reliable source of the nutritive value of food is USDA Home and Garden Bulletin- The Nutritive Value of Food. You can find it online.

I haven't found a way to search for a specific food without looking in the table of contents for the food group and then paging down to that page. The HG72 is no longer available in print form.

The nutritive comparison for honey and sugar is listed below only for those items that have any difference. Anything listed as a trace or 0 was not mentioned.

A tablespoon was used as the common measurement. Honey has 64 calories per tablespoon and sugar has 48. There are 17 carbohydrates in a tablespoon of honey and 12 in granulated sugar.

Honey has 1 mg of calcium (which is hardly noteworthy) and a just a trace in sugar. Iron is .1 mg (again not much) and sugar has a trace. Honey has 11 mg of potassium and 1 mg of sodium, again neither of these is significant. Sugar has none.

You may prefer the taste of honey over sugar, which is the primary reason to choose honey. Honey does have different properties than sugar when using it for baking. You may need to experiment to get a good result when substituting honey for sugar in baked goods.

Honey is twice as sweet as sugar so you can use less honey. Begin experimenting with substituting honey for sugar by following these guidelines:

Substitute honey for half the sugar in a recipe. If the recipe calls for 2 cups sugar, use 1 cup of sugar and a half-cup honey. The sugar is needed for producing the golden brown color desired for many baked goods.

Sugar also helps results in a light texture that many people prefer.

If you decide to use 100 percent honey, then you may find the product will taste and look different than what you are accustomed to.

Reduce the liquid in the recipe by a quarter-cup for each cup of honey used.

Add a half-teaspoon baking soda for each cup of honey used. This will improve the texture of the baked item.

Reduce the oven temperature by 25 degrees to prevent over-browning.

Honey will help baked goods remain moist and stay fresher longer than those baked with sugar.

Store honey at room temperature in an airtight container. Don't refrigerate honey. Honey can be warmed to dissolve crystals.

It's best to put the honey container in warm water and stir until the crystals dissolve. Don't over-heat the honey.

Try honey raisin muffins for breakfast or an easy snack. They are low fat and have some fiber as well as protein which make them a better choice than other muffins.

Honey Raisin Muffins
Makes 12

1/2 cup plus 2 Tablespoons flour
1/2 cup plus 2 Tablespoons whole wheat flour
3/4 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 cups bran flake cereal with raisins
1 cup fat free milk
1/2 cup honey
2 egg whites
3 tablespoons unsweetened applesauce
2 Tablespoons canola oil

Combine flours, baking powder, baking soda, cinnamon and salt in a bowl and set aside.

In a large mixing bowl, combine cereal, milk and honey; let stand for two minutes to soften. Stir in egg whites, applesauce and oil; mix well.

Add dry ingredients and stir until moistened.

Fill a greased or paper-lined muffin pan two-thirds full.

Bake at 400 degrees for 15-18 minutes.

Cool 10 minutes before removing from pan.

Summer's end brings fall, winter chores

Cheryl Steenerson
Columnist

Well, summer is officially over. It certainly was a wild season.

This summer was even hotter and dryer than last. Many crops suffered, but the landscape as a whole, suffered as well. If we get any big storms, be it snow or ice, they'll be even more limbs and trees down than usual.

If you haven't taken stock of your own landscape trees lately, take a good long look now. See if any limbs could do damage to your house, buildings or vehicles if they come down. They could affect your health and safety, along with your wallet. Insurance claims usually come with deductables.

Proper tree pruning is a lot of physical work. Limbs should be cut where they meet the trunk. In most cases, that means bringing out the chain saw and the ladder. It's not a chore one should do by themselves. My friend Phillip found this out the hard way. If you fall off the ladder, you need someone there to call for help.

It's best to trim trees when they are dormant. Evergreens (conifers) can be pruned just about anytime. Before you start cutting, look at the tree from the top down. Get a picture in your mind of what needs trimmed.

Remember that all those cut limbs and branches will have to be dealt with when you're done. That's when you can really determine if it's a do-it-yourself job or not.

Cut wood can be used for a lot of different things ranging from compost (if you have a chipper) to furniture or buildings, depending on the size. You won't want to use it in the fireplace or wood stove because it can cause build up inside your chimney.

That build up is like a grease fire waiting to happen. Green wood is also a bugger to burn. Wood should be cut and left to dry out for six months or more before being used indoors.

Different wood burns a different rates. Hardwoods like oak, ash, hard maple, walnut, locust, apple, cherry, peach and plum burn the best. I always keep some cedar around to add occasionally, just for the smell. I use a lot of wood because I prefer using my wood stove rather than the electric heat. I go through about 2 cords of wood. If you burn only one to two fires a week then you'll need a face cord to get through the winter.

A face cord is a stack that is 4 feet wide by 8 feet tall by 16 inches deep. That's about 220 pieces of wood. A full cord is about 3 face cords, or 8 feet wide by 4 feet tall by 4 feet deep. Stack it a few inches off the ground to help air circulate. I have a covered wood rack. After I fill it up, I attach a plastic tarp to the front to act like a shower curtain. the rain stays out and it still gets air from the ground up.

You decide how much you'll need to stay warm, and plan on a power outage or two. I usually keep two days worth of wood inside the house. I also save my empty toilet paper rolls to stuff with newspaper and use as fire starters. I use less newspaper to get the fire going when I do this, which reduces build up in the stove pipe.

Celebrate fall's arrival by taking care of what may fall this winter. This Saturday is the Full Harvest Moon, so put the garden to bed and get all those outside chores done before the weather turns to yuk. It won't be long before we're cooking chili, drinking hot chocolate and snuggling up to the fire. Oh, I think I like the sound of that already. Happy growing.

Springfield man injured in motorcycle wreck

From staff reports

A Springfield man was injured Sept. 15 when a vehicle pulled out in front of his motorcycle on US 127, according to a news release from the Anderson County Sheriff's Office.

Garland Mann, 73, lost control of his motorcycle when a vehicle driven by Katelin Butler, 19, of Irvington pulled out in front of him near the intersection of US 127 and the Bluegrass Parkway.

Mann tried to steer his motorcycle around Butler's vehicle, but his rear tired started to skid and he lost control, according to the release.

Mann was transported by Anderson County EMS to the University of Kentucky Medical Center with undisclosed injuries.

Butler was examined by EMS but was not injured, according to the report.

hole.

My obsession with the current definition of trust began with my self-centered thinking about the state of the media.

Recent polls reported that distrust of the media, the fourth estate, is at an all-time high (Gallup stated 60 percent of Americans have very little or no trust in the media in 2012, compared to the 54 percent who did trust the media from 2002-2004).

Not only does this worry me personally — as someone who strongly believes in the absolute necessity of strong media presence for a strong society — but it worries me as a citizen of the country, and of the world.

I suppose I could find more tangible things to worry about, but trust is No. 1 on the menu this week.

To what lengths will we doubt? And once trust is gone, can we ever get it back?

With the presidential race drawing to a close (I know I will breathe an exhausted sigh of relief once it is over), voters must make a choice that surpasses thoughts about Romney's stance on the middle-class or Obama's overall job performance: whose name you trust on the ballot.

It's not just the president; we also need to concern ourselves with those on the state and city level, evaluate our level of trust in their platform, in their ability to listen to their constituents.

And if one or the other candidate betrays that trust to an already distrustful and skeptical American public, what will that mean for political discourse?

The lack of trust is not just in politicians. It's for authority of any kind, of any degree of power.

It's not surprising, therefore, to see thousands of people all over the country gathered through the Occupy movements to protest authority in the form of the "1%."

When we hand people a sense of power over us, a silent agreement has been struck.

Break that agreement, and you've lost your voice. You've lost the ability to speak genuinely to people who will listen.

And that includes me, as a reporter. This paper has a whole.

If the media can't find a means of regaining trust, that entity is endanger of losing its voice entirely, losing a means to get important and critical information out to readers and listeners.

That is, if the American public is still open to listening.

Chili cook off to be held at Frankfort Regional Medical Center

From staff reports

Frankfort Regional Medical Center is hosting a community chili cook-off Saturday, Oct. 6 at the hospital as a fundraiser for National Breast Cancer Awareness Month.

Proceeds will benefit the Kentucky Pink Connection, an organization that provides support for breast cancer patients by reducing and eliminating barriers to screening, diagnosis and treatment.

Tickets will be sold for $1 each to sample individual chili, or $5 for six tickets.

The chili cook-off is being held in conjunction with the hospital's inaugural Pink Poker Motorcycle Run from 11 a.m. - 2 p.m.

The hospital is still looking for individuals or organizations to enter chili into the competition.

There is no entry fee for the competition.

To enter, or for more information, call 502-226-7500 or visit frankfortregional.com.

Burgoo Festival starts Friday; cook off is Saturday

From staff reports

If you haven't experienced Lawrenceburg's annual burgoo festival yet, now's your chance.

The 19th Anderson County Burgoo Festival activities kick off on Sept. 28 with a pancake breakfast at the Anderson County Senior Center at 7 a.m.

The second annual Burgoo Cook Off will begin at 11 a.m. on the Lawrenceburg Green. Festival goers are invited to sample and vote on local businesses and organizations' burgoo, with all proceeds going to the sheriff's office's Shop with a Cop program.

A patriotic service to honor service members and veterans will be held at 7 p.m. on Saturday.

Local merchants will be open during the festival on Main Street, and attendees are encouraged to bring a lawn chair to enjoy the activities.

Rental chairs will also be available.

The festival is located on both Main Street and Western Avenue, and these streets will be closed between Woodford Street and Court Street, including Jackson Street and a portion of Township Square.

Project Restoration organizers seek to 'take back our town'

By Meaghan Downs
News staff

Project Restoration is making a declaration: Anderson County needs to take back its town.

Now.

Organizers of the Project Restoration prayer walk believe next Saturday's event — a prayer march from the Anderson County High School to the courthouse to the Lawrenceburg Green — will be a call for unity in fighting addiction and suffering in the county.

Kim Black, executive director of prayer walk sponsor Anderson County Recovery Lifeline Connection, said about 16 churches expressed interest in participating, including a few churches from Franklin County. Event organizers say they're not sure of the number of people who will walk in Project Restoration, but estimate that they expect no fewer than 200 people.

Black said the march would encourage the faith-based community to "break down the walls of separation" between those with addictions and those without.

"It's not an 'us' versus 'them' problem," Black said. "It's a 'we' problem."

Anderson County's problem begins with young people, according to prayer walk participant and Anderson County Recovery Board of Directors member Miranda Duvall.

Duvall, and a handful of other Anderson County Recovery members, first came up with the idea of organizing a public prayer walk in the midst of conversation about the needs of the Anderson County community.

To her, Duvall said, the prayer walk is more of an acknowledgment that there is a drug problem in Anderson County than a public declaration.

"It's a small town, but drugs are taking over our youth, our people," Duvall said. "It's not just poor people, rich people. It's everybody."

Duvall speaks from first-hand experience. She said she started using drugs at age 14, and went to jail for 98 days in 2011 because of an addiction to the oxycodone and acetaminophen drug Percocet.

"That was a very big wakeup call to me," Duvall said of her time in prison. "I had time to think about what the drug abuse was doing to me, but also to my kids, my mom. Everybody."

After a couple relapses, Duvall said, she's been clean for more than a year and four months. She's been involved with Anderson County Recovery since January 2012 with the intent to become an instructor with the organization.

She said sharing her story of her past drug addiction has been helpful in her own recovery.

"I wanted people to hear my story, I don't want everybody to go through all the bad things to finally get clean," Duvall said.

The Anderson County Recovery prayer walk is a step in the right direction, she said, but it's not going to fix everything.

But if the prayer walk gets community members to notice Anderson County Recovery and the classes it offers, Duvall said, so much the better.

"We want the prayer walk to say, "Hey, let's take back our town... let's get back to what we were," Duvall, whose fiancé and children will be attending the walk with her, said.

Anderson County's problems aren't any worse than any other county, fellow Project Restoration participant Brittany Price said.

The purpose of the walk, Price said, is to show publicly how serious Anderson County Recovery is in helping the community.

"We are not trying to 'Christianize' our city," she said, explaining earlier that the courthouse stop was included so that participants can cover government officials in prayer, and also to allow a shorter walk for some marchers to the Green. "We're not here to try to change what you believe. We just want you to know that we care."

The prayer walk is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. at the Anderson County High School ninth grade wing, and will follow a route down Broadway to Main Street, where the first group of marchers will meet up with a second group at the Anderson County courthouse.

The walk will then continue to the Lawrenceburg Green, where a worship and prayer service will be held.

Project Restoration prayer walk

When: Oct. 6
Time: 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.
Where: There will be three separate starting points for the prayer walk: one at the Anderson County High School by the ninth grade wing, one at the Anderson County courthouse and one at the Lawrenceburg Green. Participants will begin the prayer walk at the high school, then follow Broadway and turn left on Main Street to meet up with the second group at the courthouse, and then end the walk with a worship service on the Green.
Participants are asked to bring chairs to the Green prior to starting at the high school or courthouse, event organizers said.
Transportation will be provided from the Green to the high school to retrieve vehicles left at the high school.
The prayer walk is sponsored by Anderson County Recovery Lifeline Connection, a faith-based support group organization that formed in November 2011. Anderson County Recovery offers classes for grief counseling, drug and alcohol addiction and more.
Anderson County Recovery can be found on Facebook by searching "Anderson County Recovery" in the Facebook search bar.

Salt River Primitive Baptist Church stopped holding worship services in the mid-1940s. The last known member of the Salt River Primitive Baptist Church, Charlie Gaines, died in 1965, according to records compiled by the church's restoration organization. Pictured is Bro. Carl Bush, who has been leading the Salt River Independent Baptist Church congregation for the last five years.

Baptist congregation celebrates anniversary of Salt River Baptist Church

By Meaghan Downs

After more than 60 years since its last Sunday morning service, Salt River Primitive Baptist is now considered home for one small Baptist congregation.

The Salt River Baptist church will celebrate two milestones this year — the 214th anniversary of Salt River Primitive Baptist building and the fifth anniversary of the congregation that worships there.

Homecoming

Salt River Independent Baptist Church will be commemorating the fifth anniversary of its congregation with a Homecoming service Sept. 30 at 11 a.m.

Salt River Independent Baptist formed in September 2007, and has been worshipping in the historic sanctuary on Salt River Road for the past five years.

Pastor Carl Bush, who has been leading his congregation since the beginning, said they started with three members, and now about 30-50 people attend the church's 11 a.m. Sunday morning service.

"I just felt led by the Lord to open that old church up," Bush said.

Harold and Betty Sims, two of the original members of Salt River Baptist Church restoration organization, are part of Salt River Baptist Church, Inc., a group that worked tirelessly in the late '70s to early '80s to restore the church building after it fell into a state of dilapidation.

"Oh, we was tickled to death; we would love to see that building open up and save more souls," Betty Sims said, recalling when she first learned the building she and her husband helped restore would be a church once more. "We really wanted it to be a church."

Harold Sims' mother attended Salt River Primitive Baptist Church in the '40s, and said he thought the Independent Baptist's congregation presence there is a wonderful thing

"It's even better now than I thought," Harold Sims said. "I thought that was something wonderful to have that started up again."

Bush, who has lived in Anderson County since 1984, said he didn't know much about the efforts by locals to restore the old building. He just heard in conversations that the building was available, and required permission from the restoration organization to hold services there.

The building had not had a regular church service there since the '40s, but the space was still used occasionally for meetings, Bible studies and other events.

When Bush first began conducting worship in the building, there was no indoor plumbing, he said. Now the interior has been carpeted, and air conditioning has been added.

Founded almost 30 years before Anderson County was established, the Primitive Baptist Church was officially "constituted" on Feb. 3, 1798 with seven charter members: John Penney, great-grandfather of the founder of the J.C. Penney department stores; Rawleigh Stott and his wife Lucy; Ann Tracy; Albert Plough; Benjamin Elliston and a young woman Nanny, a slave of Stott's.

Bush estimates that the church building is one of the oldest in the county, with the surrounding cemetery also one of the oldest in Lawrenceburg.

The original building burned to the ground in the late 1700s, but was rebuilt quickly in the early 1800s, according to Bush.

Although the Salt River Independent Baptist church added a 14 by 30 foot addition with a bathroom, kitchen and fellowship area, the sanctuary retains some of its features original to Primitive Baptist, like exposed log beams and its distinctive three separate entrances.

According to historical records gathered by the restoration organization, the Primitive Baptist Church followed strict rules for worship and conduct as a congregation member, a lifestyle common for many churchgoers of that time.

Women entered the church through one door, men through another, and slaves through a third, separate door.

A church pew original to the building sits on the front porch of the church, and Bush said there are about 11 more pews in storage.

Bush said he doesn't believe the church will stop holding services there any time soon.

"If we outgrow it, then we'll probably have to," he said when asked if the church would ever leave its current location at Salt River Road. "There's no room to add to it anymore."

Until then, Bush will continue to lead Sunday morning worship just as other Anderson County residents did more than 200 years ago.

Customer service key to success at Farmers Bank and Capital Trust

Plenty has changed in the past couple of decades at Farmers Bank and Capital Trust.

Computers have replaced typewriters and keyboards have replaced pencils used to fill lengthy ledgers with an endless stream of numbers.

Those changes sparked a veritable revolution in how people interact banks, with many now using smart phones to conduct nearly all of their banking business.

Heck, the bank's name even changed, arriving at Farmers Bank and Capital Trust after years as Lawrenceburg National Bank.

But no matter how much changes, there will always be one constant that that never will: focus on the customer.

"Our customers are our top priority," said Barbara Markwell, manager of the bank's Main Street branch in Lawrenceburg. "We strive to give good quality customer service."

At Farmers, the belief in customer service goes well beyond lip service. At the Main Street and West Park Shopping Plaza branches, customers are greeted with coffee, cookies and smiles when they walk in, all of which is vitally important to continuing the bank's tradition as a community bank.

"They feel comfortable with us," said Libby Goodlett, a loan officer at the Main Street branch. "They can count on us to be truthful and respectful."

Another important aspect is that when a customer walks into either branch, chances are the person taking care of their needs is a fellow resident of Lawrenceburg.

"It's nice for a customer to come into the bank and see a familiar face," Goodlett said, adding that the bank's staffs make it a point to get to know their customers.

"When we talk to someone, we try to get to know them," Markwell said. "Once we start talking to them, we found out that we may know their parents or a sister or went to school with them as a child.

"We work to establish a relationship with them, which helps us connect with them."

And that connection goes well beyond service provided inside the bank. Outside, the bank is very active in the community and participates in a variety of events and fundraisers.

The bank is a major sponsor for the summertime movie series at Lawrenceburg Green, which provides free family entertainment one Friday night each month.

There are collection drives such as one recently completed for the Backpack Buddies program, which provides school supplies for children in need, along with collections for the local food pantry and other worthy causes.

The bank is a major sponsor of Relay for Life, along with providing donations for March of Dimes, diabetes prevention and the Big Brothers and Sisters programs.

"All of those are very important and show we are out there, supporting our community," Markwell said. "It helps our customers get to know us better so when they come in to open an account or apply for a loan, they are more familiar with us."

Local employees coupled with dedication to serving customers and their community have been keys to the bank's long-term success.

"It all boils down to how you treat people when they come in," said Markwell. "We try to do the best we can and give the person what they're after, and being friendly goes a long way.

"When they walk out, our goal is to make sure we have a satisfied customer."

COMMUNITY BRIEFS

VFW, Auxiliary to sponsor youth scholarship competitions

The Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4075 and the Ladies Auxiliary are sponsoring two contests for youth in the community.

The "Voice of Democracy Scholarship Competition" is open to students in grades 9-12. It is a three to five minute audio-essay on the subject "Is Our Constitution Still Relevant."

First and second place winners will receive $500 and $250, respectively, and be eligible for district, state and national scholarships.

The second contest is the "Patriots Pen Youth Essay Writing Contest" for students in grades six through eight.

The theme is "What I Would Tell America's Founding Fathers."

The student must write a 300-400 word essay on this theme.

First and second place winners will receive $100 and $50, respectively, and be eligible for district, state and national scholarships.

The deadline to enter both contests is Nov. 1, 2012. Scholarship organizers ask that teachers submit a typed list of students' names who enter the contest.

The scholarship competitions are open to public school, private school or homeschooled students.

For more information about either contest or to participate, contact Larry Montgomery at 502-695-2324 or 502-330-7520 or the counselor at the student's school.

Extension to host program on multiple medication risks

The University of Kentucky Extension Office and the Anderson County Extension Homemakers plan to host a program titled "Your Medicine Cabinet: the Risks and Benefits of Multiple Medication Use" on Oct. 12 at 6 p.m.

The program will feature a free dinner consisting of a potato bar, soft drinks and dessert, with seating limited to 150 people.

According to program organizers, the event will involve a discussion about the use of multiple medications. "Learn how medications can mimic disease, why medications behave differently in elders, and what each one of us can do to help and minimize and prevent unwanted medication outcomes," organizers said.

To pre-register, contact the Anderson County Extension Office at 839-7271.

The event is open to residents of Anderson County and surrounding counties. Forty people must be pre-registered by Oct. 1 or the program will be canceled.

The truth about loyalty to Christ

Tim Johnson
Guest columnist

Anybody remember the second point of the Scout law? Any den mothers, patrol moms, former Boy Scouts or Cub Scouts out there?

"A scout is trustworthy, _____, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean and reverent. The missing word above and the second point of the Scout law — loyal.

Some years ago there was the movie titled "The Truth about Cats and Dogs." Psalms 100, verse 5 reminds us about the truth and speaks to us on loyalty, "For the Lord is good; his mercy is everlasting, and his truth endureth to all generation."

If we are going to know the truth about loyalty, we must first of all make preparations. Just as Jesus prepared himself in the garden of Gethsemane for the cross that was up ahead, we ought to prepare ourselves to learn what God has to say about loyalty. The Lord is totally loyal to his children; he never forsakes them and he is always around when they need him. Therefore, God may be calling you to a deeper commitment of loyalty to him. The almighty recognizes loyalty. "Have you noticed my servant Job?" God asked Satan. "Job is a perfect, upright, reverent man." The loyal are praised: "Abraham shall surely become a great and mighty nation." Faithfulness is rewarded: "Hezekiah prayed," and the Lord said, "I will add unto thy days 15 years."

Second of all, if we are going to know the truth about loyalty, we should present ourselves to God. When we do this, the Lord responds with action. He speaks, he leads and he wins. Psalms 100 is the church's "Call to praise and worship," and it is also our call to loyalty. As the words of a gospel song go, being loyal is "just another typical day in the life of a child of God."

Presenting ourselves to God to be loyal is an act of submission and submission is challenge for any believer. Someone once said, "I wear my wife's eyeglasses because she wants me to see things her way."

We chuckle, but truth be known: presenting ourselves to God, being loyal, is seeing things God's way.

Finally, the truth about loyalty: we follow the picture painted by Christ. Others chose pleasure, he chose keeping God's promises. Others sought lust; Jesus opted for love. Be loyal to God, he will certainly be loyal to you.

Tim Johnson is a guest church columnist for The Anderson News and a pastor at Fellowship Baptist Church.

OUR HUMAN BODY

I just don't understand the Atheist or the Agnostic when it comes to the human body. Each of them have a body and has to deal with its uniqueness each day that they live.

David said, "I am fearfully and wonderfully made" (Psalm 139:14). The longer that we study the human body, the more we realize that it just could not happen and that it is a masterpiece of intelligence and superhuman planning.

I purchased some binoculars not too long ago and it is amazing how close things can be brought. A person who has not seen binoculars before are amazed at what they can see. Only a foolish person would say that binoculars just happened. But, the human eye is more intricate and amazing than any binoculars ever dared to be. The eye is self-focusing, and allows the proper amount of light to come in so that we can see objects from all kinds of directions and then turn around and cleanse itself.

We could also speak of the human heart which pumps 6,000 pounds of blood through 10,000 arteries and veins every 24 hours and can do this over and over again without a shutdown or repair even up to a hundred years. We could also speak of the kidneys as a purification system and the brain as a unique telephone system that is in tune to every part of our bodies.

The fact is, that with just a little investigation, our minds can accept that there is superior intelligence behind the human body.

Rick Perry, a sophomore lineman on the 1972 Anderson County district champions, played the key role of "tackling dummy" for the Bearcats' Homecoming game with highly-ranked Harrodsburg. He acknowledges the crowd as the team was introduced before the Anderson home opener last month.

Taking one for the team

Perry took a beating before '72 Homecoming

John Herndon
Sports editor

Those 1972 Anderson County football players must have stayed out in the sun too long on too many days.

Or maybe they'd run into a few too many trees – a la George of the Jungle – when they were swinging near Rice Crossing.

There's really no other way to describe the chain of events that turned Homecoming 1972 into one of the most memorable nights in Anderson football history.

"Before the season started, Dutch (Ishmael, the Anderson head coach) said to us, 'Who do you want for Homecoming?'" remembers Jeff Kays, a senior on the Bearcats' first district champion. "It was almost unanimous: Harrodsburg."

OK. Uh huh. Homecoming is the night when you play somebody whose chances of beating you are roughly equivalent to the odds of McGovern beating Nixon.

All Harrodsburg had was a stable of speedsters that made the Pioneers one of the favorites to win the Class A state championship.

Anderson? The Bearcats had gone 2-8-1 in 1971 and 1-10 the year before. Harrodsburg had won those games 51-0 and 26-0.

Archie Bunker would say Meathead was right before Anderson County could beat Harrodsburg in 1972.

"People in the school thought we were nuts," Kays laughs.

In talking with members of that 1972 Bearcat team, many of the details are fuzzy after 40 years. But that mid-October week of practice is still fresh.

It started on Monday when Ishmael issued sophomore lineman Rick Perry a practice jersey bearing the number 24 in honor of Harrodsburg star Bo Yeast. The most common introduction to the chain of events is simply a chuckle followed by "Poor Ricky. We beat him to death."

Perry, who recently moved back to his hometown after living in Winchester, recalls he was being used as a tackling dummy.

"Whatever it took to make our defense better was the goal," Perry says. "Coach (Larry) Barnett, being from Hogtown (as fans of several rival schools called Harrodsburg), was really looking forward to hanging a loss on them."

And Perry just happened to get the honor of being Harrodsburg's star in practice.

"Poor Ricky. We beat him to death."

Anderson was a bit of a surprise at 4-2 but was coming off a 7-6 loss to Shelbyville. Harrodsburg would probably just see another step on the road to the state championship.

Funny thing happened along the way.

Harrodsburg's vaunted single-wing kept getting grounded.

"We had the best scouting report," Kays remembers. "Against Harrodsburg, we were calling their plays."

And the ploy of putting the stars number on a backup lineman worked.

"The defense was able to call out the play we were about to run just by the formation we lined up in," Perry says.

"Poor Ricky. We beat him to death."

On Friday night, that "Poor Ricky,"

Old rival awaits Bearcats on homecoming

Big game takes on added weight in district race

Anderson County vs. Woodford County.

Or as they call it east of the Kentucky River, Woodford County vs. Anderson County.

For years, there was little that could get the juices flowing more than when the Bearcats and Yellow Jackets – or should that be Yellow Jackets and Bearcats – hooked up, any time, any sport.

Bearcats vs. Yellow Jackets

When: Friday, Sept. 28, 7:30 P.M.
Where: Hollie Warford Stadium, Anderson County High School
Records: Anderson Co. 4-1, 1-0 in district; Woodford Co. 3-2, 0-1.
The series: Woodford leads 21-16
First meeting: Anderson 21, Woodford 0 (1964)
Last meeting: Anderson 31, Woodford 13 (2011)

That passion has dwindled somewhat, but certainly not entirely, in most sports as the schools are no longer regional rivals despite being located less than 20 minutes apart.

The notable exception is football. Friday marks the 40th meeting of the schools, but ironically, only the fourth as district rivals.

Anderson County linebacker Nathan Cox (30) makes a stop as Tristan Ashburn (15) moves in to assist against Bryan Station in the season opener. Cox and the Anderson defense shut down a high-powered Montgomery County attack Friday night at Mt. Sterling and will be called upon to do the same against Woodford County in Friday's homecoming game.

"It's always been a rivalry with Woodford County," Anderson senior Granville Hayes says. "Football, basketball, baseball. You always want to win that one."

For Anderson, the Yellow Jackets represent the next step in a road that has been almost free of the bumps that come along the way. At 4-1, the Bearcats' record could only be called a mild surprise. Most observers saw Anderson being in that ballpark before the season began, but few foresaw the Bearcats being as impressive as they have been in wins over Mercer

Lady Bearcats lose focus, match at Shelby

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

SHELBYVILLE – It was simply a matter of keeping everything in focus last Thursday.

Shelby County did. Anderson County didn't.

And with a 4-set victory over Anderson, homestanding Shelby clinched the top seed in the upcoming 30th District volleyball tournament.

Shelby remained unbeaten in district play – the Rockets defeated Collins Monday to finish a perfect district season – and improved to 13-6 on the year. Anderson fell to 3-3 in district play and 15-11 overall. The Lady Bearcats will be either the two- or three-seed in the tournament, but it does not matter as they will play Collins in the first round either way.

Last Thursday, Anderson seemed to have Shelby where it wanted after taking the first game, 26-24. Shelby came back to win the second by the same score, but something happened to Anderson's aggressive plan of attack.

Down 8-7 in the third game, Anderson suddenly saw Shelby run off five straight points and eight of the next 10. For all practical purposes, the Lady Bearcats were done. They fell 25-18 in Game 3 and by the same score in the fourth game. Anderson's only subsequent lead was a short one as the Lady Cats only led 1-0 in Game 4.

Anderson County's Rachel Swartz goes high for a hit at Shelby County last Thursday. The Lady Bearcats were wearing pink t-shirts in support of Shelby's Volley for the Cure program to raise money for breast cancer research.

Anderson's focus soon became blurry.

"Their focus was lost when (the Lady Bearcats) started dwelling on the mistakes they had made in the past plays," said Anderson coach Courtney DeLong. "When they mess up, they start to question what they're doing wrong, why they're doing it wrong and how to fix it. This was just one of those situations where they just couldn't get themselves out of the hole they had dug."

Gone was the confident and aggressive team that had put together a string of eight wins in nine matches

Bearcats to play before Pacers game

From staff reports

The Anderson County Bearcat basketball team will be going big time in November.

The Bearcats will be participating in a scrimmage with Southwestern on Saturday, Nov. 3 at Bankers Life Fieldhouse, the home of the NBA's Indiana Pacers. Tip-off is at 12:30 p.m.

The Pacers will be playing the Sacramento Kings, who feature former University of Kentucky players DeMarcus Cousins and Chuck Hayes along with former Louisville Cardinal Francisco Garcia. The Pacers are coached by former UK manager Frank Vogel.

Tipoff for the Pacers-Kings game is 7 p.m.

A special website address will be set up through the Pacers to allow fans to purchase tickets for the games. Tickets are $13 and are good for both games, according to Jennifer Drury, wife of Anderson coach Glen Drury.

More details on the special day of hoops will be posted online as soon as they become available.

Kaitlin Riley chips during the Pepsi Tour event at Wild Turkey Trace earlier this year. She won a playoff for her third straight state tournament berth Monday.

Riley needs extra holes to advance to state again

From staff reports

Kaitlyn Riley might be getting used to long days on the golf course.

At least during the Region 4 Tournament, she is.

For the second consecutive year, the Anderson County High School junior had to win a playoff but still advanced to the state golf tournament, to be held next week at the Bowling Green Country Club. It is Riley's third state berth overall.

Riley fired an 81 at the Gibson Bay Golf Course in Richmond, where the tournament was held Monday.

Riley tied with three other golfers for the final two individual spots, then clinched her state berth with a 25-foot putt on the second playoff hole.

As a team, Anderson finished fifth overall with a team score of 362. Henry Clay, with a 324, won the region while Boyle County's 334 was also good enough for a state berth.

THOMPSON PARTICIPATES IN PRESTIGIOUS CAMP

Anderson County High School sophomore Brett Thompson participated on the National Under Armour baseball team last month at Bradenton, Fla. Thompson competed in the Baseball Factory National World Series at Pirate City, the spring training home of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Thompson received coaching from several former professional baseball players, pro scouts and college coaches. He pitched and played all three outfield positions, going 3-for-7, all singles, at the plate. He stole two bases and scored two runs. According to a news release, Thompson said all of the players in the camp were talented and he "soaked it all in like a sponge" to learn as much as he could during the week.

Several local businesses and individuals sponsored Thompson for the trip.

SPORTS BRIEFS

Bourbon Chase to pass through Anderson County

The Fourth Annual Bourbon Chase will be moving through Anderson County on Saturday, Sept. 29.

The Chase is a 200-mile overnight relay covering much of the Kentucky Bourbon Trail. The race begins on Friday, Sept. 28 at 8 a.m. at the Jim Beam Distillery near Clermont and will wind through Bardstown and other central Kentucky towns to the finish line in downtown Lexington on Sept. 29 from 3-9 p.m..

More than 3,800 runners from 44 states are expected to take part. The scheduled Anderson County segments are as follows:

6:15 a.m.-10:45 a.m. - Through Bondville to the Bluegrass Parkway overpass.

7 a.m. -11:30 a.m. -- Paxton Road to Four Roses Distillery.

7:45 a.m.-12:15 p.m. -- U.S. 127 North to Anderson County High School.

8:30 a.m.-12:45 p.m. -- Broadway to Main Street to Wild Turkey Distillery.

Softball golf scramble set

The Anderson County High School softball team will be sponsoring a golf scramble on Sunday, Sept. 30 at Wild Turkey Trace Golf Course. The scramble begins with a shotgun start at 1 p.m.

The cost is $200 per team with the scramble being limited to the first 36 teams to register. The winning team will receive $400. Food and drinks will be provided.

To register, contact the Wild Turkey Trace pro shop at 839-4029.

New softball team having tryouts

Tryouts for the Frankfort Blitz, a 10-and-under girls' softball team, will be held on Saturday, Septt. 29, from 2-4 p.m. at Lakeview Park in Frankfort. The tryout is open for any girl age 10 or under as of Jan. 1, 2013. The tryouts are open to residents of Franklin and all surrounding counties. For more information, contact Larry Story at 859-492-5895.

Correction

Anderson County High School golfer Tyler Brothers' score to win the Mercer County Junior Varsity Tournament was incorrectly reported in last week's Anderson News. Brothers shot a 36 over nine holes.

Legends change affiliation

The Lexington Legends have a new parent club.

The Legends, a minor league baseball team that competes in the Class A South Atlantic League, last week announced a new player-development contract with the Kansas City Royals through the 2016 season, according to a news release.

The move cuts the Legends' ties with the Houston Astros, with whom the team had been affiliated with since the franchise's first season in 2001.

Lady Bearcats' soccer team trying to overcome multitude of injuries

Lose keeper to concussion at Franklin County

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

Anderson County girls' soccer has been taking its lumps recently, yet coach Jason Earnest says his team "will be fine."

The Lady Bearcats dropped matches to Franklin County and Mercer County last week to see their slump reach five losses in six games to fall to 6-9-1 on the year.

Yet, Earnest feels his team will be better prepared for the post-season battles for district, regional and state championships.

"Am I concerned about the five losses in the last six games?" Earnest asked Monday. "Maybe a little, but we will be fine. We had the weekend off and now get to refresh. This is the final third of the season and we have five games left that I think we can really play well in. I think if we focus on that, we will be fine going into the post-season."

Anderson lost goalie Alyssa Rogers with a concussion during a 2-1 loss to Franklin County last Wednesday. The time of her return was unknown at press time.

Against Franklin, the Lady Bearcats were unable to capitalize on some good first-half chances, according to Earnest, but Madeline Wilson fired a shot past the goalie from 25 yards out to give Anderson the lead with 30 minutes to play.

Franklin, however, started to see things turn its way in the final 20 minutes. Lauren Taylor got Franklin on the board in with about 10 mintues to play.

Rogers took a shot to the head with five minutes to go, prompting Earnest to use Makenzie Cann in the net for the first time.

Earnest said Cann played well, but Franklin scored with about a minute left after what Earnest thought was a clear handball on Franklin.

"There was nothing Makenzie could have done (on the game-winner)," Earnest said. "We lost 2-1. It was a real heartbreaker in that we played hard and probably should have been up a couple of goals before the last 15-minute press by Franklin County."

The next night, Mercer County put a 3-0 decision on the Lady Bearcats.

"We were emotionally and physically drained from the night before," Earnest said.

"We have had a ton of injuries that have worn us down and honestly, it has affected us mentally. I see and hear the kids talking about injuries constantly, saying, 'Who is going to be next?' That probably one of our biggest ordeals right now as we seem to worry about those types of things rather than just going out and playing."

turned into "Poor Bo."

What happened next is as vivid in the collective memories as this morning's Sports Center highlights. Not long before halftime, Yeast's father had seen enough. He came out of the stands and took the Pioneers' star out of the game.

Kays

"Yeast took his helmet off, and his father came out of the stands to the sideline and told their coach to take him out before we hurt him. As I watched him, I guess I could identify with the way he was feeling," Perry said with a laugh.

Years later, Barry Birdwhistell, a Bearcat ccaptain in 1972, ran into Yeast at a University of Kentucky football game. They talked about that night. "He said we beat the living daylights out of him. He laughed about it," Birdwhistell remembered.

As for playing time, Perry saw little in 1972, but he was still a part of the team.

"It wasn't until years later that I realized what my contribution to that team actually was. The upperclassmen told me I earned their respect that week," he says.

And on Oct. 13, 1972, Meathead and Archie might have had a peaceful night.

On the way to a district title, the Bearcats accomplished the impossible.

Bearcat soccer getting ready for post-season tournaments

From staff reports

The Anderson County boys' soccer team won just one of three against a competitive schedule schedule last week but continued to show some inconsistency as the regular season winds down.

The Bearcats host Danville in the final home match of the season on Thursday night, then travel to highly-regarded Mercer County next Tuesday, Oct. 2, for the regular season finale.

After dropping a 2-0 decision at Somerset on Saturday, the Bearcats stood at 8-8 on the year.

Thursday, Anderson defeated Frankfort High, 5-3 but last Tuesday, Western Hills, ranked 10th in the state, put a 5-1 whipping on the Bearcats.

"That doesn't tell the entire picture of the game," said Anderson coach Khamisi Campbell. "We were without three starters, but the players gave a great account of themselves. They kept competing and even created several great chances in the second half."

Campbell said that Western Hills scored only one goal in the second half.

Campbell added that the team is focused on the end of the season and the upcoming tournaments.

"This group is very motivated and a fun bunch to work with," he said. "The boys are upbeat and looking forward to the upcoming week's games."

In previously unreported action, the Bearcats defeated a good Montgomery County team, 3-1, in a consolation round game in the Bourbon County Colonel Classic.

"We were without three starters, who were out through injury," Campbell said. "We played the game with a reshuffled squad and a freshman centre-back who played all 80 minutes. The boys were fantastic meeting the physical and technical demands of the game."

RONALD BORGQUIST

Grade & School: Eighth grade, Anderson County Middle School
Favorite Subject: Arts and Humanities
Favorite Musical Group: Toby Mac
Last Book I Read: 'Tiger Rising'
Last Movie I Saw: 'The Avengers'
Person in History I'd Most Like to Meet: I would like to meet Ronald Reagan, not because of his name, but because he was a leader who stood out. He did many things that I would love to learn about.
Future Plans: My future plans are to have a nice job as a drummer/singer. If that doesn't work out however, I would like to be an FBI agent or something that helps support my family.
Principal's Comments: Ronnie is new to our school this year, but he already has established himself as a leader among his peers. He is a hardworking young man who always has a kind word and a ready smile for others.

No contest as Bearcats hand Montgomery County first loss

Hayes delivers career highs rushing, receiving

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

MOUNT STERLING – Granville Hayes had the perfect analysis of Anderson County's 27-8 win at Montgomery County Friday night.

"Have a feeling imma be taking an ice bath in the morning," he said on his Twitter account not long after the Bearcats had won their first district match-up of the season.

Anyone who was in attendance at Cunningham Field knows why. Hayes ran for 126 yards, a career-high, and scored a touchdown. He caught 10 passes, also a career-best, for 104 yards and a score.

For good measure, Hayes pounced on a fumble that stopped Montgomery's game-opening drive inside the Bearcat 10. We are not sure if he drove the team bus up Interstate 64 for a game that many had circled as perhaps the most crucial on the schedule.

Instead, it was no contest.

Big game? Only on Anderson's stat sheet. The Bearcats put up 472 yards of offense, registered 23 first downs and did not even punt until midway through the third quarter.

"We knew it was a big game, but we play every game like it is a big game," Hayes said as the Bearcats improved to 4-1. Most importantly, they are 1-0 in district. Montgomery fell to 4-1, 0-1.

Anderson's domination was so complete, the final score might actually be closer than the game actually was. The Bearcats moved the ball on the ground, piling up 229 yards. They moved the ball through the air as quarterback Zachary Carmichael completed 17 of 25 passes for 243 yards.

Meanwhile the Anderson defense was just as dominating, holding a team that had been averaging better than 26 points and almost 400 yards a game to a lone touchdown and 185 yards. Montgomery senior Matt Tuttle, considered by some as one of the better quarterbacks in the state, ran for his life most of the night, running for just 11 yards but throwing for 154.

That he was able to put up even those numbers was a testament to his considerable ability.

Running back Blake Preston, who had been averaging 111 yards per game, managed just 20.

"Pretty much, everybody was just doing their job," said junior linebacker Nathan Cox, who led a balanced Anderson defense with 3 tackles and 3 assists.

"For the most part, I was proud of our defense," Anderson coach Mark Peach said. "They were disciplined in their lanes. When (Tuttle) would cut back, there was somebody waiting for him. When you slow somebody like that down, you have to be playing together."

Eleven Anderson penalties, ranging from illegal procedures to a crucial roughing the passer, aided the Indians.

"Some of the mistakes were huge," Peach said. "We had the roughing the passer call and in the first half we had some issues snapping the ball." Anderson was flagged for four false starts in the first half.

The roughing the passer, coming when it appeared Anderson had stopped Montgomery on downs early in the fourth quarter, led to Montgomery's only score. Three plays after the penalty, Tuttle connected with Chas Newkirk for Montgomery's only touchdown. On the ensuing point after attempt, Tuttle scrambled wildly after not being able to cleanly set the hold, then found a receiver for the two-point conversion.

The problem for Montgomery was that the touchdown only made it 20-8.

Anderson had taken control early in the second quarter when the Bearcats marched 84 yards in 9 plays. Hayes did the honors on a 5-yard pass from Carmichael with 9:23 left in the first half. When Hayes leaped into the end zone and Joe Rose drilled the extra point, Anderson led 10-0.

It would never get closer. It could have been worse.

Anderson had stopped Montgomery's first drive when Hayes pounced on Joe Chism's fumble at the Bearcat 6. Tuttle had connected with Chism for a 30-yard gainer on the final play of what was easily the Indians' most productive drive of the night. Chism bobbled the ball momentarily before fumbling away.

There was no indecision on the official's part in ruling the ball had been caught before the fumble.

Anderson finally stalled at the Montgomery 11 before Rose split the uprights for a field goal from 28 yards.

After holding the hosts to a three-and-out, Anderson put together its first touchdown march.

The Bearcats got on the board again midway through the second quarter, forcing a Montgomery punt – the Indians had just two first downs in the first half – then seeing Rose just barely clear the cross bar on a 39-yard field goal to make it 13-0. Two false starts, including one after the Bearcats had a first-and-10 at the Montgomery 25, stalled the drive.

The Bearcats effectively put things out of reach when Carmichael hit Dusty Puckett for a 13-yard touchdown pass in the fourth quarter. Puckett ran a sharp pattern, cutting just inside the defender at the goal line.

Carmichael at times did not look as sharp as he had in earlier games, but Peach said Montgomery had a lot to do with that.

"They did a nice job," he said. "They tried to get physical with us and disrupt our timing a little bit. Montgomery ran a legion of blitzes. I am not talking about the usual package of six or 10 or a dozen. They have a legion of blitzes. We tried to work on that all week and on our pass protection.

"Zachary did a nice job getting out of trouble."

Montgomery drew within 20-8 and looked like it might be on the verge of the miracle it needed when Rose boomed a 41-yard punt to give the Bearcats breathing room.

"Joe was a weapon for us," Peach said. "He had a great night kicking off and had two field goals that were huge, then he had that big punt."

Anderson had faced a fourth-and-30 situation from its own 28 when Rose delivered his beaut. The Bearcats had gotten in that situation when the snap from center got away from Carmichael in the shotgun. The sophomore fell on the ball after a 26-yard loss.

It had been billed as a battle for second place in Class 5A, District 6. If all goes as expected, Friday's winner should be in good shape for at least a first round home game in the state playoffs. But with East Jessamine pulling a mild upset at Woodford County Friday, Peach was just happy.

"We made so many mistakes," he said. "I am so proud of the guys. I told them that sometimes in life, things will not always go your way, but you have got to find a way to make it happen at the end of the day. That is the way life works.

"Our guys found a way to make it happen tonight against a quality opponent."

and Montgomery counties the last two weeks.

Now, Anderson has its sights on a strong district seeding and its third straight post-season run.

Woodford, on the other hand, is simply looking to get back to the state playoffs, which it has missed the last two years. "This is a big game for us because it is a district game," Woodford coach Steve Stonebraker says. "We are just learning how to play better football and compete for four quarters at a consistently high level. That is the step we have to take next."

Woodford figured to be a favorite for one of the four Class 5A playoff spots out of District 6 before the year but the inconsistency showed up last week when the Jackets dropped a 28-19 decision to district foe East Jessamine.

That setback dropped Woodford to 3-2 and 0-1 in district play.

"We are continuing to play hard," Stonebraker says. "We are still in the process of learning how to win big games but we are playing very hard."

Anderson will be a strong favorite Friday, yet Bearcat coach Mark Peach believes his team will have to show up for its annual homecoming game. It is also Anderson's first home game since the season opener against Bryan Station on Aug. 17. Since then, Anderson has won four straight away from Warford Stadium.

"There are a lot of festivities going on this week with homecoming," he said. "But there is a football game to be played Friday night."

Peach expects Woodford to run plenty of option – the Yellow Jackets averaged fewer than 10 passes a game during the first three contests after last year's quarterback, Matt Couch, graduated.

Lineman Elijah Jones might not have his name called as much as the backs, but he might be one of the better players in central Kentucky. "He is a wonderful defensive lineman," Peach says. "Wonderful."

Linebacker Conrad Smart was in on 17 tackles in last year's contest, won by Anderson, 31-13.

In that one, Woodford scored quickly on a 63-yard pass from Couch to Michael Rusher, but Anderson soon took control.

A similar outcome Friday night would not be a surprise.

Scoreboard woes over?

Anderson is expected to have a functioning new scoreboard installed in time for Friday's game.

The old unit, which had been malfunctioning off and on since 2007, has been taken down.

"I have never seen a bunch of players so excited about just seeing some empty posts," Peach quipped.

The key word, however, is expected.

As of Monday, the new scoreboard had not been installed.

The Bearcats do have a portable scoreboard available. It is much smaller and only gives the score and time, while most football scoreboards post downs, yards to go and timeouts remaining.

Peach said the Bearcats are prepared to go with either scoreboard.

District, regional races quickly taking shape

Anderson's win over Montgomery County last Friday was one that, in all likelihood, played a major role in the District 6 seeding race. The teams were expected to battle it out for the No. 2 and 3 seeds behind district favorite Franklin County.

Anderson is in the enviable position of simply taking care of business the rest of the way in order to have a first-round home game in the playoffs. According to the computer rankings, the Bearcats could have a shot at their third district title in six seasons later this year. Franklin is still ranked at the top of the district but the margin in the rankings is not as great as it was expected to be.

There is much football to be played before then. Anderson cannot slip up against Woodford or West Jessamine in the next two weeks.

In District 5, which is paired against District 6 in the playoffs, everything is already a mess thanks to South Oldham's 63-57 win at Conner last week and Cooper's better-than-expected start.

Most knew South Oldham would be good, but during the pre-season, many virtually conceded the District 5 race to Conner and big-time quarterback prospect Drew Barker. Cooper also not expected to be undefeated at this point of the season.

Those three teams now figure to have a major battle for the top three positions in the district.

But just as in District 6, there is plenty of football to be played.

earlier this month. Shelby, however, showed that it is ready to reclaim district supremacy. The Lady Rockets silenced any threat of a comeback in Game 3 when junior Kyndle Pace delivered a late kill.

Shelby took control in the fourth set when Ariana Jones served up seven straight points to make it 12-3, then after Anderson whittled into the lead and pulled within 21-18, Shelby Tooke came through with consecutive kills to end any threat of going to a fifth set.

"We had several errors in the last games. I believe the main ones that hurt us were missed serves and communication," DeLong said. "In the first game that we won, we only had one missed serve. I'm unsure of the last games but there were several between the two."

Early, Anderson was impressive, getting big games from Shelbi Savoie, Rachel Swartz, Bethany Hardin and Baylee McKenzie at the net.

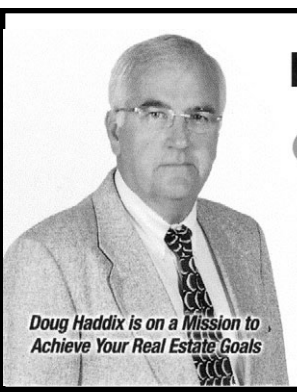

"Things did click for us in the first game," DeLong said. "They had a lot of high points throughout the game and maintained a lead for most of the game. Staying ahead is crucial for us as a team. The moment we let any team gain a few points on us we tend to let them back in. Winning is fun and when they don't have so much pressure on them to make a comeback, it's easy for them to get the job done."

DeLong said her team had several communication errors as well.

"The communication errors were due to the fact that when we get down on ourselves, most tend to get quiet," she said. "We're working on that communication barrier right now, so hopefully, it will show."

In other matches last week, the Lady Bearcats split with Henry County and West Jessamine, both by 3-0 scores.

Fall atmosphere makes October the greatest time to hunt

Early muzzleloader season gives another opportunity to enjoy

By Jeff Lilly
Outdoors columnist

Fall is here and archery season is in full swing. The cooler temps will have the leaves turning autumn colors and starting the beginning of what will be the end of summer. These same cooler temperatures will soon have the white-tailed bucks here in Kentucky starting their annual frenzy to find as many lady friends as possible.

October typically is when we here in the Bluegrass start to see some early stages of the rut. Most bucks are still running in what's commonly referred to as "bachelor groups." These groups won't last much longer as the testosterone within these deer builds the groups start the process of establishing dominance within the herd and then it's basically every buck for himself. October is probably the greatest time to be in the Kentucky woods hunting due to this and just the overall sights, smells and sounds of the fall.

October also ushers in a couple of different ways to hunt big bucks. Kentucky's first segment of the crossbow season opens on Monday, Oct. 1and runs thru Sunday, Oct. 21.

Over the years, the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife has become more liberal with the crossbow season from its humble beginnings of a week-long season in late December. I didn't bother with getting an expensive crossbow until several years ago once the season was extended. Crossbows, much like the regular long bows, recurve bows and compound bows we reviewed in my August outdoor column, come in a number of versions, styles and makes.

My advice on getting started in crossbow hunting would be the same as with any means of procuring hunting equipment: do your research. The Internet makes reviewing the many different specifications on the hundreds of crossbows available so much simpler and much less expensive than running all over to different sporting good stores. I like doing the initial research online but advise to always (if possible) get hands on before purchasing. If possible, get with someone you know who already has a hunting crossbow and fire some bolts (crossbow arrows) down range with their supervision to see how you like the method and equipment.

Crossbows, like any other hunting equipment, can be very dangerous so always treat them as if they are loaded. Modern crossbows, as opposed to the more primitive ones, can launch their payload at incredible speeds of over 350 feet per second and manufacturers seem to continue to increase that number every hunting season with new products. Modern crossbows have followed the path of the compound bow with many models having cams, silencers, scopes and what seems like an unlimited number of gadgets to go along with them. My crossbow is actually of the recurve style but still shoots a hunting bolt upwards of 350 feet per second.

The regular statewide archery season remains open during the crossbow seasons. The last segment of the crossbow season in Zone 1 counties (Anderson is one) starts on Nov. 10 and runs thru Dec. 31. Hunters can hunt and harvest deer of either sex. Don't forget you can also hunt and harvest turkey during these seasons. Be sure and check restrictions, rules and regulations as well as bag limits with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources before going afield.

Muzzleloader season

The early muzzleloader deer season in Kentucky is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 20-21 in all four hunting zones across the state offering yet another means of harvesting venison.

The equipment for hunting with this method has also modernized a great deal. My old Thompson/Center New Englander has served me well over the years and I have yet to purchase a newer version of today's muzzleloading rifles. This is another area where manufacturers of these weapons continue to improve on the accuracy and overall feel and performance of their products. A lot of these newer models are as accurate as some centerfire rifles out to several hundred yards. Most even look more like a centerfire rifle than an old "smoke pole" like I carry.

Here again, I advise to do your research, get with a black powder experienced buddy and let him walk you through the process of loading , shooting and cleaning of these guns. Visit a local gun shop or sporting goods store for a "hands on" feel of different models. Black powder guns are great fun to shoot and hunt with but you'll soon find out they are very high maintenance due mostly to the corrosive nature of black powder to the gun metal. Cleaning is essential in order to keep them operable and reliable for years to come. As with all weapons, treat them at all times as if they are loaded.

Youth-only firearm season

Kentucky's first segment of the youth-only firearms season is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 13-14.

The October youth-only firearms season requires hunters age 12-15 to have appropriate hunting license and deer permits per Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources regulations. All bag limts, zone restrictions and other requirements apply so be sure and check regulations before going afield.

Youth hunters under age 12 are not required to have a hunting license or deer permit per KDFWR.

Quick shots

*Per last week's front page of The Anderson News: alcohol and hunting at the same time is not a good idea.

*Check with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources at 1-800-858-1549 if you still need to take a Hunter Education Course.

*Telecheck your harvest by calling 1-800-245-4263. This number is in service 24 hours a day during open seasons.

*Squirrel season is still open until a brief closure Nov. 9-12 for the opening weekend of modern firearm season for deer.

*The first segment of the fall turkey season opens for shotgunners on Saturday, Oct. 27 and runs thru Friday, Nov. 2.

*September is the only month for hunters to apply for the quota hunts offered by the state for deer, pheasant, quail and upland birds. Hunters can apply online at www.fw.ky.gov or call 1-877-598-2401 before the end of the month.

Take a kid hunting and fishing soon!

See ya outside!

Applications for quota hunts must be submitted by Sept. 30

By Art Lander, Jr.
Ky. Dept. of Fish & Wildlife Resources

The application deadline for quota deer, bear, small game and waterfowl hunts is midnight, Sunday, Sept. 30.

Applications for the deer, small game and waterfowl hunts can be made 24 hours a day by either calling toll-free 1-877-598-2401, or going online at fw.ky.gov. Applications for the 2012 bear quota hunt with dogs may only be submitted online.

"Persons who apply online, and provide an e-mail address, will receive a confirmation by return e-mail," said Patrick O'Connell, information systems manager for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. "Applying online is fast and easy and increases the accuracy of the application."

This season hunters have a choice of 31 quota deer hunts, including hunts on two new areas -- Veterans Memorial Wildlife Management Area in Scott County on Nov. 3-4 with 60 hunt slots and Big Rivers WMA and State Forest in Union County on Nov. 10-11 with 40 hunt slots. Applicants for quota deer hunts have the option to pick a first and second hunt choice, but may be drawn to participate in only one quota hunt.

Kentucky's first ever bear quota hunt with dogs will be held Monday, Dec. 17 through Friday, Dec. 21, if the harvest quota of 10 bears (or five females) is not met during the regular bear season. To apply for this new quota bear hunt, houndsmen must have purchased a 2012 Bear Chase permit.

Small game hunters can apply for pheasant quota hunts on three WMAs -- Green River Lake, Clay, and Yellowbank. The pheasant quota hunt at Yellowbank is a new hunt for 2012, with three hunt dates: Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 14, 15 and 16.

There will also be six wild quail quota hunts on Peabody WMA. The date of the mentor hunt is Nov. 24.

Four upland bird quota hunts will be held on Clay WMA on Wednesday, Nov. 7; Sunday, Nov. 18; Sunday, Dec. 9; and Tuesday, Dec. 18. Hunters may take bobwhite quail, ruffed grouse and woodcock during the upland bird quota hunts, when the seasons for all three species are open. Woodcock season ends Saturday, Dec.15.

Waterfowl hunters may apply for quota hunts on Ballard WMA and Sloughs WMA, which will be held during the fall and winter duck and goose seasons.

Waterfowl quota hunts at Ballard WMA are held on Wednesdays through Sundays, and hunters may apply for individual days. At Sloughs WMA, quota hunts are held seven days a week, but hunters must apply for a block of days.

The dates for these quota hunts are on the online application.

To get other details of these quota waterfowl hunts, go online to fw.ky.gov. Click on hunting, trapping and wildlife, then game animals followed by waterfowl and other migratory birds.

Later in the fall, from Nov. 15-30, hunters can go online to the license page of the department's website at fw.ky.gov to apply for a sandhill crane hunting permit. No applications will be taken by telephone.

For the 2012-13 season, 400 permits will be awarded through a lottery drawing. Kentucky's 30-day season is Saturday, Dec. 15 through Sunday, Jan. 13, 2013. Sandhill crane hunting permits are not transferable.

Applicants for all quota hunts can check to see if they were drawn on Monday, Oct. 8, when a link will be posted on fw.ky.gov.

Get out this fall and enjoy one of these quota hunts. They provide some of the best hunting opportunities found in Kentucky.

Anderson 4-H shooting sports team on target for state titles

Archers took home three individual championships

From staff reports

The Anderson County 4-H shooting sports team produced three individual state champions and four team champions in the state meet held recently.

Eighteen local youth participated in the event, competing for the championships in two separate disciplines: archery and shotgun.

Those earning state championships were Adam Steele in the 9-11 year old Bare Bow Division; Justin Mehs in the 15-18 year old Bare Bow Division; and Ethan Steel in the 15-18 year old Target Bow Division.

Steele is repeating as state champion in the same division.

Others placing individually were Mehs, who placed second in the 15-18 year old Bare Bow Division and Cameron Peyton, third in the same division.

The 12-14 Bare Bow team consisting of Taylor Hughes, Bradley Wilson, Ben Richie and Michala Frederick won the state championship in its division.

The 15-18 Bare Bow team also won its division. Team members are Mehs, Peyton, Steele and Nikki Nivison.

The 15-18 Old Bow Hunter team, made up of Mehs, Steele, Peyton and Cody Able, took the championship in its division.

The 15-18 Old Target Bow team also won a title. Team members are Steele, Mehs, Able and Peyton.

In addition, the 12-14 Old Bow Hunter team (Frederick, Jacob Able, Ben Richie and Wilson) took third place while the 12-14 Old Target Bow team (Frederick, Jacob Able, Richie and Zach Toles) also placed third.

AN ORDINANCE PROVIDING FOR THE LEVY OF AN AD VALOREM TAX RATE FOR REAL AND PERSONAL PROPERTY WITHIN THE CORPORATE LIMITS OF THE CITY OF LAWRENCEBURG, KENTUCKY
2012-11

WHEREAS, the City of Lawrenceburg, Kentucky, did on September 15, 2011, enact an Ordinance (No. 2011-10), providing for the levy of an ad valorem tax on real and personal property within the corporate limits of the City of Lawrenceburg, Kentucky, that is subject to taxation for the City's General Fund purposes. Said Ordinance was numbered 2011-10 and was duly advertised and filed for record in the Office of the City Clerk of the City of Lawrenceburg, Kentucky; and

NOW THEREFORE, the Board of Council of the City of Lawrenceburg, Kentucky, convened on the 17th day of September 2012, does ordain as follows:

SECTION 1

The tax rate levied on real property for 2012 shall be $0.184 per $100.00 of assessed valuation, and the revenue expected to be produced by such tax rate is $993,676.00; and

The tax rate levied on personal property for 2012 shall be $0.3037 per $100.00 of assessed valuation, and the revenue expected to be produced by such tax rate is $76,623;

The tax rate levied on motor vehicles for 2012 shall be $0.229 per $100.00 of assessed valuation, and the revenue expected to be produced by such tax rate is $126,682.00.

The revenue produced in excess of that produced in 2011 shall be used for increased General Fund Expense, including, but not limited to salaries, purchase of supplies and equipment, and repair and maintenance of public ways and property.

SECTION 2

That all taxes mentioned in Section 1, shall be due and payable December 31, 2012, provided, however that all taxes due and owing to the City of Lawrenceburg remaining unpaid on the 1st day of January 2013, shall bear interest at the rate of twelve percent (12%) per annum from the first day of January 2013, until paid, and this penalty on said taxes shall be paid at the time such taxes are paid.

The undersigned, an attorney licensed to practice law in the Commonwealth of Kentucky, hereby certifie that he prepared the summary of Ordinance set forth above and that the summary represents an accurate depiction of the contents of such Ordinance adopted by the City of Lawrenceburg, Kentucky, on September 17, 2012, and further that pursuant to KRS 83A.060(9), the full text of each section that imposes a tax or fee is set forth in its entirety.

MASTER COMMISSIONER'S SALE

In order to comply with the orders of the Anderson Circuit Court, the Master Commissioner will sell the property described in the following actions on Thursday, September 27, 2012, at 11:00 a.m. in the Anderson County Courthouse, Lawrenceburg, Kentucky. The property shall be sold to raise the amounts hereinafter set forth, together with interest and the costs of this action, and upon the following terms and conditions (unless otherwise indicated):

(1) At the time of the sale, the successful bidder shall either pay cash or make a deposit of ten percent (10%) of the purchase price, with the balance on credit for thirty (30) days. In the event the successful bidder elects to credit the balance, he or she will be required to post bond and furnish surety acceptable to the Master Commissioner. The bond shall be for the unpaid purchase price and bear interest and the rate of twelve percent (12%) per annum until paid in full.

(2) PLEASE NOTE: The real estate SHALL BE SOLD SUBJECT TO ALL city, state, county, and school real estate taxes, whether current or delinquent.

(3) Where the real estate has insurable improvements, the successful bidder shall, at his or her own expense, carry fire and extended coverage insurance on said improvements from the date of sale until the purchase price is fully paid, to the extent of the Court appraised value of said improvements or the unpaid balance of the purchase price, whichever is less, at a minimum, with a loss clause payable to the Master Commissioner or the appropriate Plaintiff. Failure of the successful bidder to effect such insurance shall not affect the validity of the sale or the successful bidder's liability thereunder, but shall entitle, but not require, the Plaintiff(s) to effect said insurance and furnish the policy or evidence thereof to the Master Commissioner, if it so desires, and the premium thereon or the property portion thereof shall be charged to the successful bidder as the successful bidder's cost.

(4) The property shall otherwise be sold free and clear of any right, title and interest of all parties to the action and of their liens and encumbrances thereon excepting easements and restrictions of record in the Anderson County Clerk's Office, and such right of redemption which may exist in favor of the United States of America or the Defendant(s), and any matters disclosed by an accurate survey and inspection of the property.

AUCTION
Country Home – Lot containing 1.02 ac +/-
1400 McDonald Road
Saturday, Sept. 29, at 9 a.m. on site

DIRECTIONS: From U.S. 127, travel west on Hwy. 44 and go approximately 5.7 miles to Ky. 395 N. Turn right and follow to McDonald Road. Property is on the left. Watch for auction signs.

Allison Mc Adam is relocating to the state of Washington, and she has authorized us to offer her home at auction on the above date. We are offering a frame home that has a living room, adjoining kitchen and dining area, bath, 2 bedrooms with the potential of additional space on the second level, front porch and deck in the rear, propane gas heater, storage building. This may be a very affordable home that you can remodel to suite your needs. Be at the auction sale day because the seller is ready to move. Property is being sold subject to seller's confirmation.

The property is being sold in accordance with and subject to existing deed or deeds and subject to all easements, conditions, and covenants now of record or visibly apparent from an inspection of the property and it is more particularly described in Deed Book 178, Page 563, as recorded in Anderson County Clerk's Office, Lawrenceburg.

NOTICE: This home was built prior to 1978 and has the potential of lead-based paint. Lead paint inspection and other inspections are to be performed prior to the auction. A waiver of the lead paint inspection will be executed and become part of the auction purchase contract. No inspections have been conducted on the home of the electrical system, heating, plumbing, structural or termites. It is being sold AS IS with no warranties expressed or implied by the seller or Birdwhistell Realty & Auction Company.

TERMS: Purchaser will be required to deposit 10% of the purchase price the day of the auction and the balance will be due w/the deed on or before October 29th, 2012. A 7% Buyers Premium will be added to the final bid to determine the sale price.
